With much pleasure and appreciation the Senior class dedicates Triumph '76 to Mr. Ben with our thanks for his friendship, good-humored attitude, and interest in the students.

*Everybody is a star,
Boo the rain and chase the dust away.
Everybody wants to shine.*

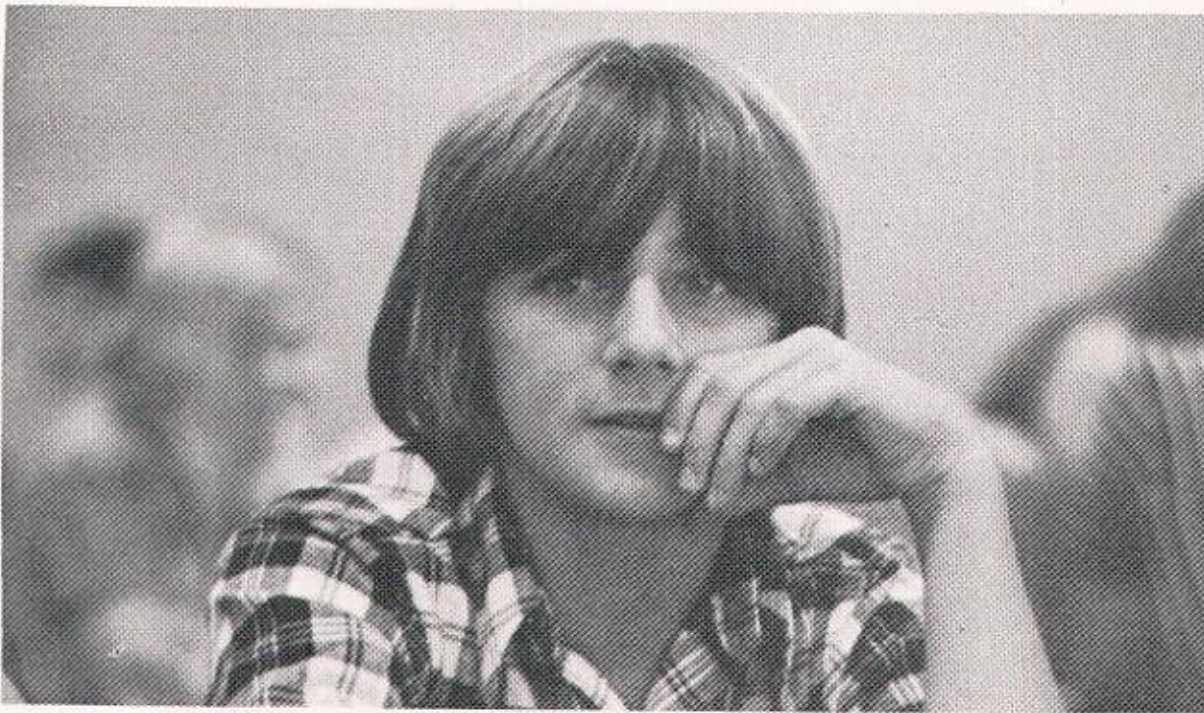

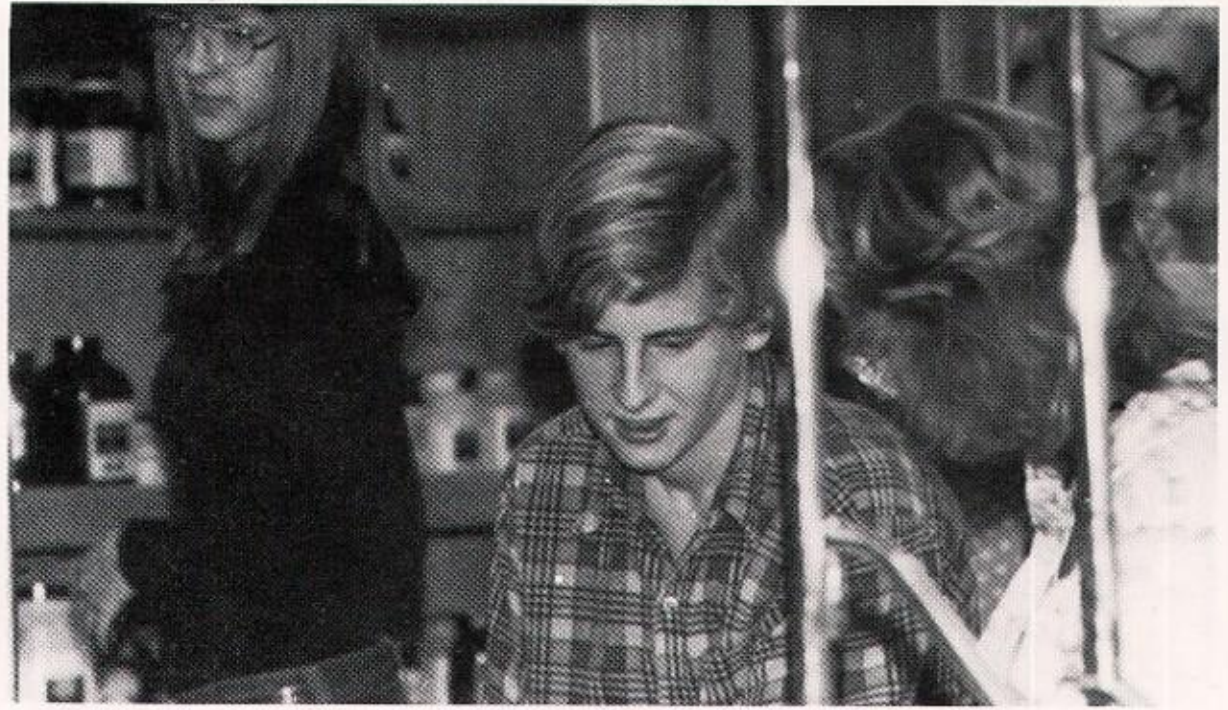

*Run out on a cloudy day,
Tell the sun that loves you proud,
When the system tries to bring you down.*

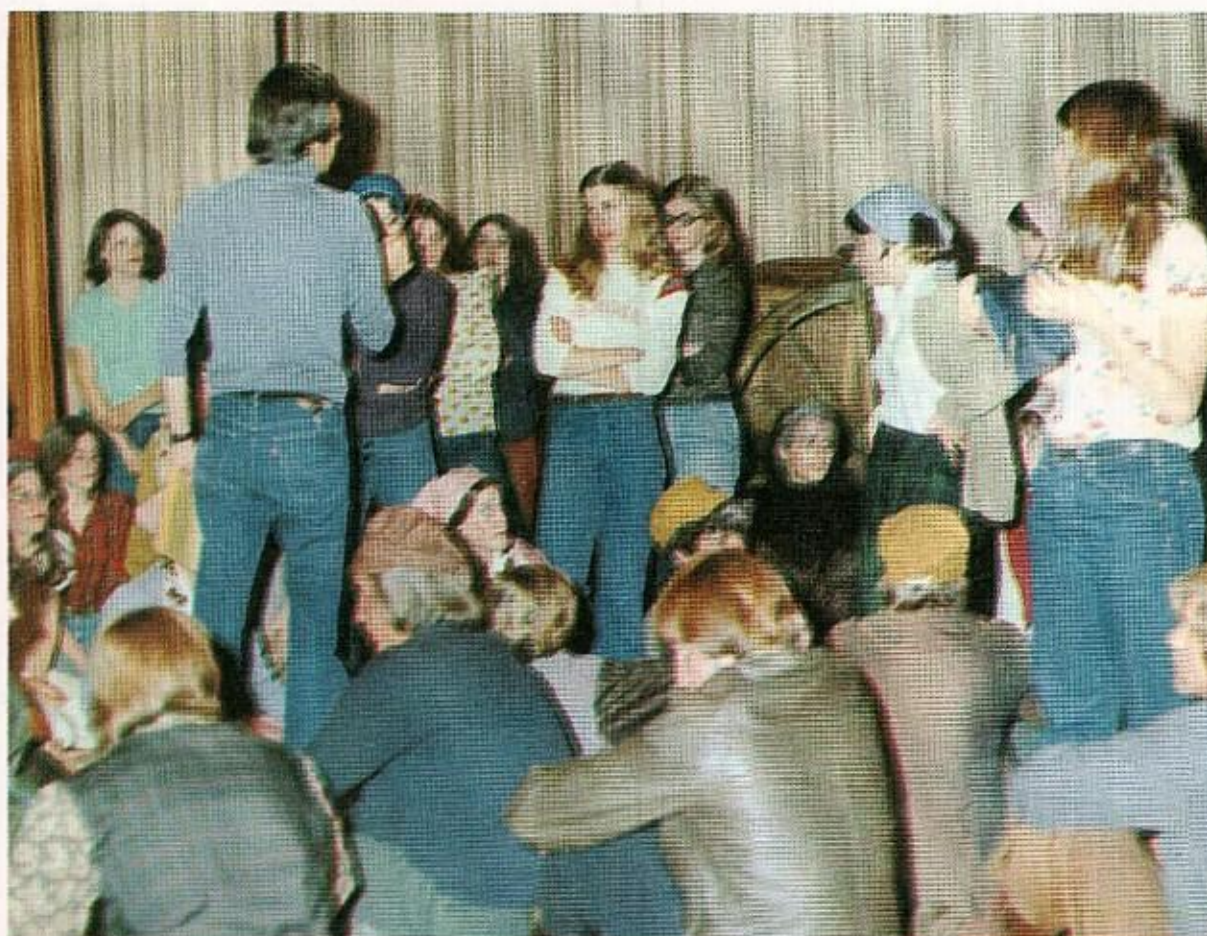

*Every hand a shining light —
Don't need darkness to put things right.
Everybody is a star.*

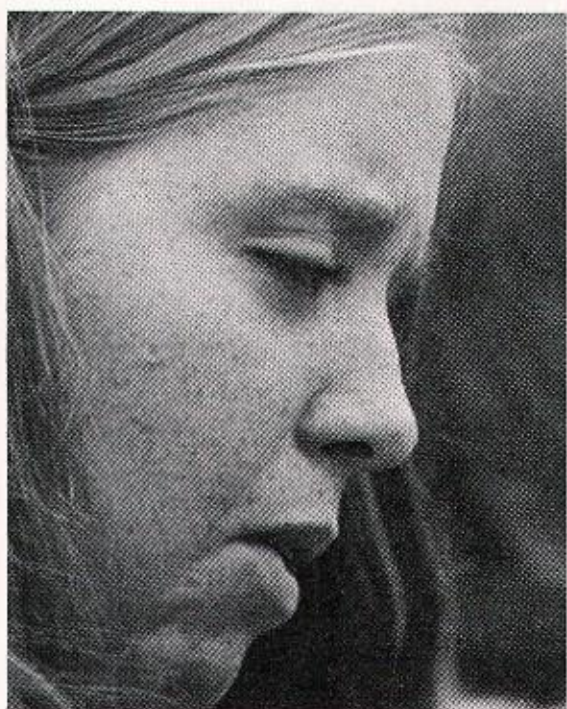

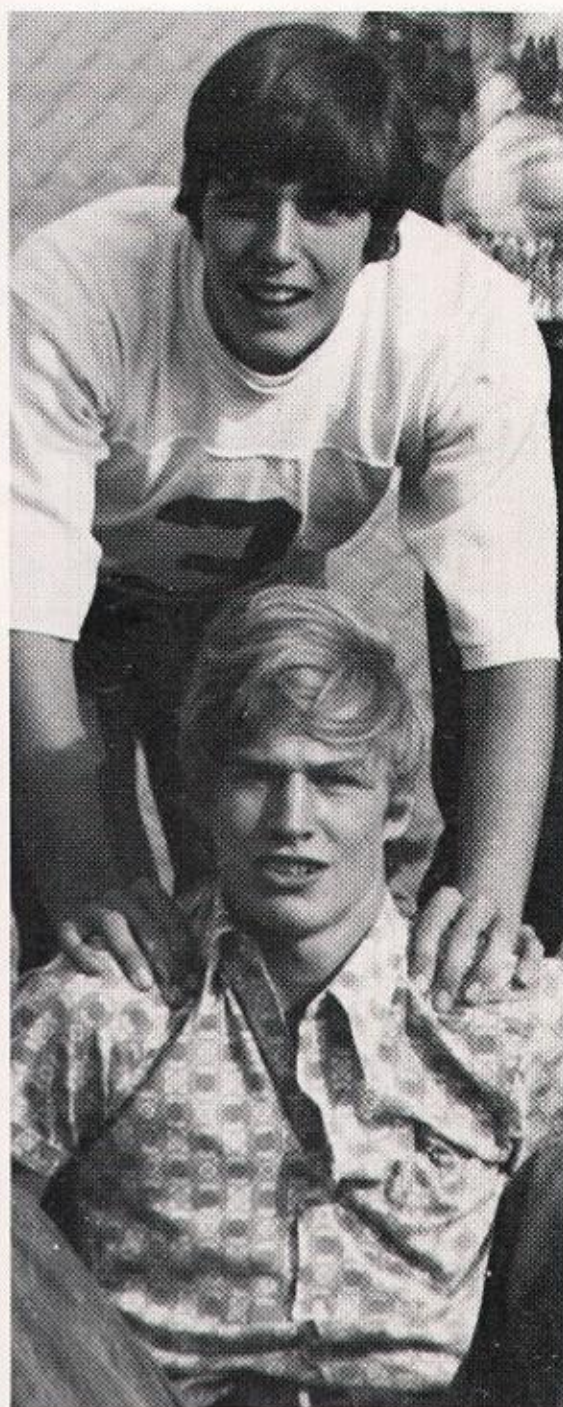

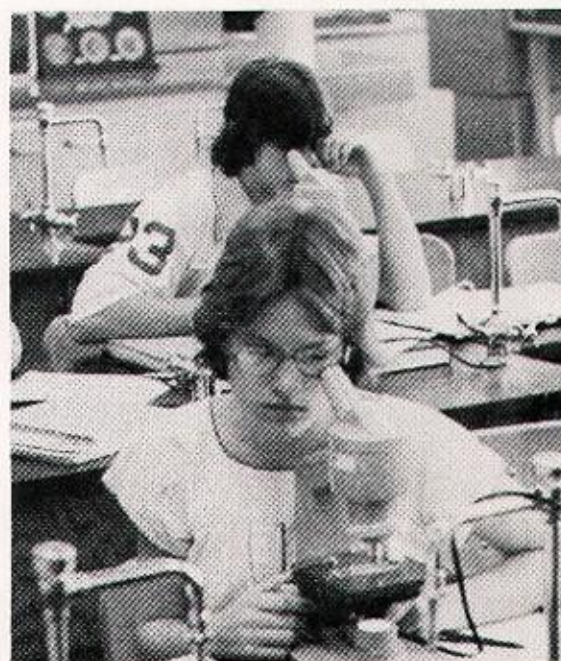

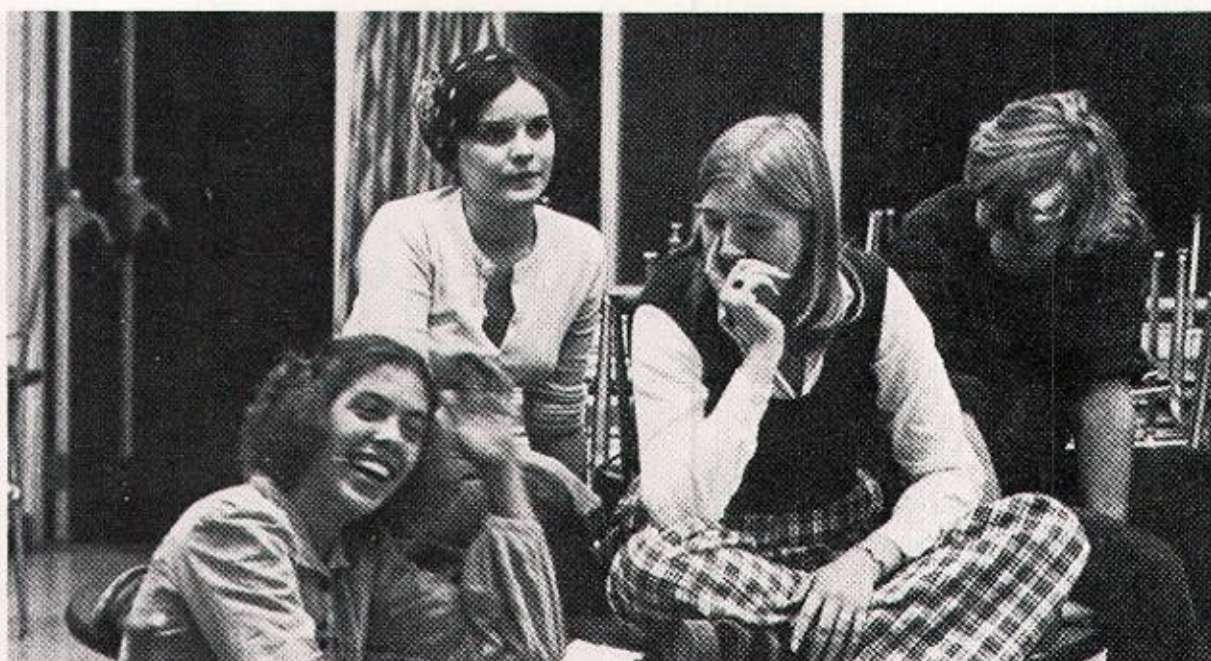

*I can feel it when you shine on me,
I love you for who you are,
Not the one you feel you need to be.*

*Ever catch a falling star,
Ain't no stoppin' til it's on the ground.
Everybody is a star.*

“ . . . Scattered pictures of the smiles we left behind, smiles we gave to one another for the way we were . . .

Graduation can mean a lot of different things to a lot of different people. To many it is a point of departure, a time for jumping ahead with anticipation of such things as college, a job, or marriage. To others it is a time for relaxation, for having fun after the long grind of the senior year, and making ready for whatever life may bring.

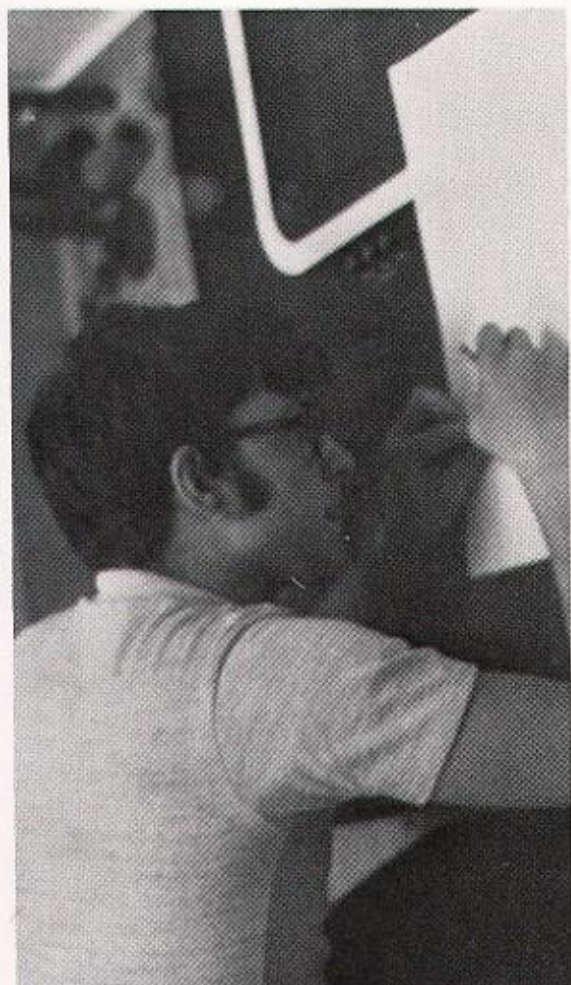

But whatever one's future may be, graduation is also a time for looking back. We begin to realize that many of our closest friends will have their own ideas, will go their separate ways. So we savor the memories of the past four years, and make the most of this final one. We look back on the many teachers we have known, and each silently chooses his favorite and his least favorite, to remember above all the rest. We hold tightly to the memories of good times in classes, the riots during lunch, the football and basketball games, wrestling and track meets, concerts and productions. And yet deep down we know the past is past. We clasp it closely to us not so much in fear of leaving it behind, but as a guide for what we'll face when our lives are not so neatly planned. When we must build our own future, our high school years will be a foundation to start from and a yardstick to measure what we may find ahead.

. . . So it's the laughter we will remember, whenever we remember, the way we were.”

As a carpenter sets out to build, he considers what goes into a house. There is the foundation, framing, insulation, walls, siding and roof.

The construction of a successful team is similar to the building of a house. As with a house, a successful team begins with a good foundation. The foundation is based on athletic spirit and the athlete's quest for self-fulfillment. Properly proportioned, a good foundation is formed.

The framing, which comes next, must be sturdy in order to help form and support the walls. Coaches are the framing in a team. Their job is to help form the team and set a winning attitude.

Although the insulation in a house cannot be seen, it would be greatly missed if it were not there. The same goes for the scorekeepers, managers, videotape cameramen, and the ushers, all of whom work unobtrusively to help make games run smoothly.

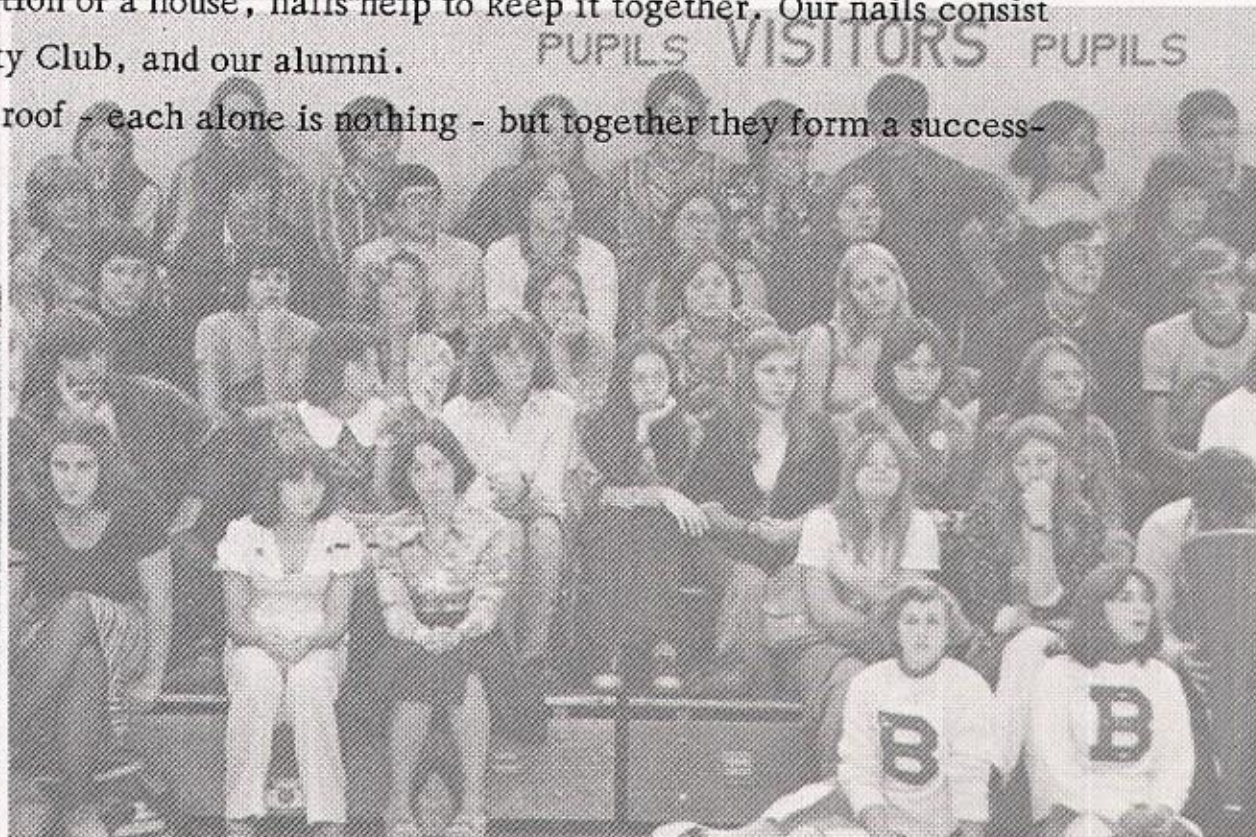

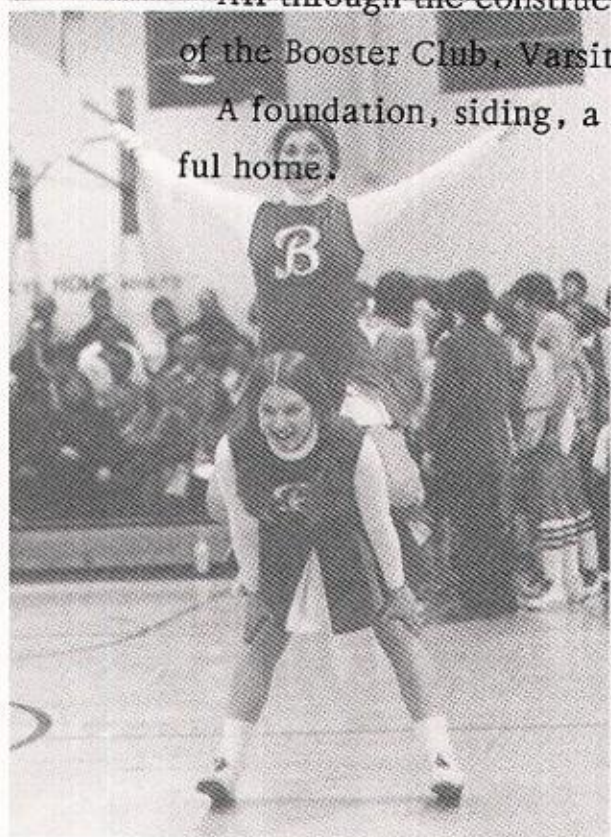

As the walls of a house are put up, the building takes shape. The many individuals who come together combining skills are the walls of our teams.

The siding adds a finishing touch to the house, giving it appeal. Spectators are the siding of a team, adding prestige, enthusiasm, and spirit to the games.

The roof of the house joins all the other parts to form the total house. Cheerleaders, with their pep and spirit combine spectators and players into one unit.

All through the construction of a house, nails help to keep it together. Our nails consist of the Booster Club, Varsity Club, and our alumni.

A foundation, siding, a roof - each alone is nothing - but together they form a successful home.

there you go, man
keep as cool as you can.
face piles and piles

it riles them to believe

Where Is This Place That We Have Found?

No One Knows Where We Are Bound.

*I long to hear, I need to see,
'cause I've shed tears too many for me.*

*But I'm never gonna lose your precious gift.
It will always be that way.*

And I know I'm gonna find my own peace of mind someday, someday . . .
